

Client: Utah
Source: The Daily Telegraph (Travel)
Date: 08 January 2011
Page: 7
Reach: 652762
Size: 86cm2
Value: 2764.04

---

Competition

Win an amazing trip to Utah

How would you like to see for yourself the extraordinary landscapes featured in 127 Hours? The Utah Office of Tourism is offering Daily Telegraph readers the opportunity to do just that, on a holiday for two people.

The prize

The itinerary takes in visits to Utah's majestic parks, including the wonderfully rugged and remote Canyonlands; the extraordinary, unique geology of the Arches and Capitol Reef; the otherworldly hoodoo formations of Bryce Canyon; and the towering gorges of Zion, Utah's oldest national park. Winners will also stay in the state capital, Salt Lake City, and visit Park City, a historic wild west mining town. The holiday includes return flights from London or Manchester with Delta Air Lines (0871 22 11 222; www.delta.com), three-star accommodation and car hire, although fuel must be paid for. See www.goutah.co.uk/telegraph for more information on holidays in Utah.

How to enter

The winner will be drawn, at random, from entries that correctly answer this question:

Name the canyon in which Aron Ralston was trapped. Was it: a) Dead Horse Point
b) Blue John Canyon or c) Bryce Canyon?

● To enter the competition add your answer to the entry form at www.telegraph.co.uk/travelcompetitions

● Terms and conditions apply. Please see the website above for more details.